Jordan News

On last fourth Sunday night (July 29th at 7:00 p.m. The Jordan Baptist Church honored its pastor, the Rev. C. L. Elliott. We were celebrating the six years Rev. Elliott has been with us. The speaker for this occasion was our former pastor the Rev. T. A. Sandifer. Our own Senior Choir provided the music. All the church clubs and organizations presented Rev. and Mrs. Elliott small tokens of appreciation. Two cakes were also presented as gifts from individuals within the Ladies Club.

On this Sunday (July 7) the Gospel Harmonettes will be in concert at the Gravel Hill Baptist Church at 3:00 p.m. We invite some of our members and friends to go with us.

Correction

In the last issue of the Times-Virginian we ran an article correcting the name of a student at the Appomattox Primary School who had been recognized for perfect attendance. Though error, we had her name as that of Connie Chenault and it should have been Connie Clifton. We regret this error.

The Pastor Speaks

"MADE FREE" (part I)
John 8: 32 "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

There was a time when men were held in the bondage of ignorance. This is one of the tools that is being used in Churches today. During the dark ages men were kept from the truth that sets one free. The Bible was chained to the pulpit and only a few could even read. Church offices went to the highest bidder and so ignorant clergy added to the darkness. The policy of the Roman Catholic Church was to keep the people in the pew ignorant so they could be controlled. Their argument was and still is that the people don't know enough between truth and error. However, God and his providence upset the applecart of suppression of truth with the Reformation and when some of the disillusioned Monks, etc., were brought to justification by faith alone the bands were broken and the truth made free. Freedom was gained from Religious Manacles and spiritual blindness. When Christ who is the "Truth" is exalted in the life there is the free expression of the Biblical principles and there is a seeking after Holiness and Godliness.

There is the attempted suppression of the truth as it is in Christ, in the local churches and denominations today. In these assemblies and organizations men are afraid to be honest with their people in regards to Salvation by Sovereign Grace, the Lordship ofChrist, the demand for a Holy life and etc...Truth is sacrificed at the alter of offensiveness, because if the truth is told someone might be offended. So, men are left to grapple with error and perish through the deceitfulness of the ministry.

To be continued next week.

The Sunday School Lesson

HERBERT C. BRADSHAW

Durham, N. C., 27702

Comment on the International Sunday School lesson for Sunday, July 8, 1973
Topic: Reverence for Human Life
Scripture: Exodus 20:13; Matthew 5: 21-26; 12: 9-13; James 4: 1-2b; 1 John 3: 11-18
Any one who hates his brother is a murderer, and you know that no murderer has eternal life abiding in him. 1 John 3: 15

In interpreting the commandment, "You shall not kill," Jesus went beyond the act of committing murder to the motivation which prompts one to murder. In the spirit of Jesus' interpretation, John in his First Letter could in truth declare, "Any one who hates his brother is a murderer..." and then explain the peril in such hate, "You know that no murderer has eternal life abiding in him."

Nowhere does man show his inhumanity more than in dealing with his fellows. This inhumanity has its origin in selfishness, which, unrestrained by respect for others inculcated by his religion or by fear of the law which forbids murder and other assaults upon the person, finds expression in trying to get rid of any one or any thing which stands in the way of getting what one wants. James, writing to early Christians, explains the basis of wars and personal conflicts. "You desire and do not have; so you kill."

One of the basic purposes of law is to put restraints on people to prevent them from harming other people. A fundamental natural right of every person is the right to live and to live unmolested by others. The right of each person to live unmolested by others means that no one has the right to molest another. Liberty under law is the cornerstone of the social order. No person can have unrestrained liberty, for if he did, no other individual's person or property would be safe from molestation. George Mason gave perhaps the clearest expression of human rights in the first article of the Virginia Bill of Rights which he drafted in 1776:

"That all Men are by Nature equally free and independent, and have certain inherent Rights, of which, when they enter into a State of society, they cannot, by any Compact, deprive or divest their Posterity; namely, the enjoyment of Life and Liberty, with the Means of acquiring and possessing Property, and pursuing and obtaining Happiness and Safety."

Law is necessary to protect each person in his rights, including his right to the enjoyment of life, but law needs the support of an even more powerful force in human life. Law and the prospect of penalty may deter people from violating it-though the deterrent effect of law is warmly debated, especially in relation to the death penalty. To support law, we need to inculcate in people respect for others.

The Sixth Commandment forbids for the committing of murder. Jesus was concerned with the motives which lead to murder and warned against allowing them to take root in the human heart and develop. Jesus also taught a positive approach to the matter, when He gave as one of the two great commandments, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself," and extended that love to include one's enemies. Necessary to the cultivation of this love is respect for the person of everyone else. In the Sermon on the Mount, in which Jesus expanded the commandment against murder to the anger which leads to murder, He also emphasized that each individual human being is precious in God's sight.

What God loves, those who love Him should love. And if God loves everyone, all who love God should love every one. Life is the gift of God. When a person has been given life, it is not any person's prerogative to take life away from any one to whom God has given it. A proper respect for God includes respect for God's gifts and for those whom God loves. Because life is the gift of God, it is a proper object of respect, even reverence.

New Camping Club Is Organized

On June 16, 1973 a group of area people met at the "Old Rocks" grounds on the banks of the Suanee Creek in Appomattox County for a picnic supper and to organize a camping club.

Attending the organizational meeting were Spud and Audrey Almond; Richard, Jane and Mark Campbell; Benny Crain; Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Elder and Patricia; Frank and Zandra Elder; Melvin, Estelle and Charles Garrette; Lewis, Marilyn, Tommy, Debbie and Renee Harris; Richard and Rosa Inge; Toby and Helen Inge; Glenn, Sandra and Melinda McIntosh; Thomas and Elsie Ranson; Kenneth, Gloria, Kenny Wayne and Danny Richardson; and Aulden, Louise, Cindy, Patty and Jennifer Roach.

The name of "Suanee Creek Camping Club" (S.C.C.C.) was chosen for the club and the following officers were elected: Toby Inge, Moderator; Louise Roach, Secretary and Treasurer; and Audrey Almond, Historian.

Members of the S.C.C.C. that were not present included Bill, Ruth, Ken and Billy Caldwell; Phillip, Barbara, Rita and Jeff Cocks; Joanne Isaacs and Barry Elder; Allan Harris; James, Peggy, and Mary Anne Lewis; Teresa McIntosh; and Nancy Ranson.

For the past four years, even though not officially organized and without a club name, this group has met and camped together on certain holidays. Fellowship and good times have always been shared by all. This being a group of Christian people, they strive to camp and to share with their fellowman for the glory of God. Some members are already active members of "Campers On Mission" with others becoming members.

When this group is away from their home church on a camping trip on worship days, they always get together and have worship services on the camp grounds.

The "Suanee Creek Camping Club" is looking forward to a good time Labor Day Weekend.

If you are a camper and happen to come upon this group they invite you to be sure and stop by to say "hello".

Construction For Recreational Facility

Cabot, Cabot and Forbes and a group of investors assembled by Wheat, First Securities, Inc., of Richmond, Virginia. The name Wintergreen is taken from a small town near the Nelson County, Virginia, site, and was selected because it conveys the year-round nature of the recreational facilities.

To be completed over a 15 year period, Wintergreen will include two villages, one a mountain village and the other a valley village. Selectively situated near these villages will be two major ski areas; three, and possibly four, golf courses; a 150 acre lake; swimming pools; tennis courts and riding trails. The two communities will feature single family home sites, condominiums and cluster housing. Wintergreen, when completed, will have 6,000 housing units.

The overall plan for the project is being developed by RTKL, Inc., of Baltimore, Md., a leading international planning and architectural firm. Wintergreen is being designed to preserve the maximum amount of land in its natural state, providing residents and visitors with unrestricted views of the rolling hills and tree-covered mountains. More than 75 percent of the 13,000 acres will be virtually undisturbed.

Initially, construction of the mountain village will take place in early 1974. The first phase of the ski area, which is designed to include three chair lifts and six trails of varying levels of difficulty, is underway. Consultants on all skiing facilities are Sel Hannah of Franconia, N.H., a leading independent ski area designer in the east designer Kinney Associates of Pennington, N.J., a specialist in ski facility planning and engineering design of ski lift facilities.

The first golf course, to be designed by Kirby, Davis & Player is scheduled to be completed in the valley village in 1976. A second ski area on the mountain, two more golf courses in valley and a mountain course will follow.

Residential sites will include condominiums, cluster units, and single family home sites, all expected to be used primarily as "second home" or retirement homes. Some home sites will be on large wilderness tracts accessible only by jeep. All residential sites are being planned to maximize open space and preserve the magnificent views of mountain and valley.

Gladstone Associates of Washington, D.C., are serving as economic consultants for the project. Wiley & Wilson, Lynchburg, Va., are consulting civil engineers, and Dufresne-Henry Engineering Corp., N. Springfield, Vt., are serving as consultants on the mountain development. Sayre & Southerland of Richmond, Va., are soil engineers for the project.
